

National Traffic Managers' Forum Update – 12th June 2019

The last meeting of the NTMF took place on Thursday 12 June at TfL Palestra House in London. The group received a presentation from Atkins who are working alongside Highways England on a Collaborative Traffic Management Tool aimed at better integration of the strategic road network and local roads. There is interest from across the regions in deepening our collective understanding on the benefits that could be derived from use of this tool. The progress on the uptake of Street works permits has been steady and there has been a slowdown in the further signing of Partnership Agreements with Highways England. Finally, the group has agreed to the inaugural National Traffic Managers Conference, which will take place on Thursday 3 October at Welford Road Stadium in Leicester.
